Here is free download book smart book by muhammad idrees pdf.Q: VBA Exceeding pre-defined limits (1000) I am having difficulties with the limits imposed on macros, as I am using them for statistical analysis and I frequently go beyond this limit. For example, this code: Sub test() Debug.Print SumArray(0, 1000) Debug.Print SumArray(1000, 2000) Debug.Print SumArray(2000, 3000) Debug.Print SumArray(3000, 4000) End Sub Returns the error: "Error 1004. Run-time error '1004': The variable is too small. Exceeded the size limit of 1000 elements." This is for a custom function SumArray() which sums any given list of values given by the user (also with the max limit of 1000 values). Any help would be greatly appreciated. Thank you. A: The size of the array is determined based on the range it is to sum. The error clearly states that you are going beyond the max size. If you go to the following code to test the base case, you will notice that you need an array of 5000 to complete the task. Sub test() Dim base_Arr(5000) As Integer For i = 0 To 5000 base_Arr(i) = i Next i Debug.Print SumArray(0, 5000) End Sub However, if your array is resizable and the base case is correct, you could expand your array before summing. Sub test() Dim arr As Variant arr = Array() arr = SumArray(0, 5000) Debug.Print arr End Sub)/225). -8/15 Calculate -2 + -5
