Adobe Photoshop Elements is a version of Photoshop that includes many of the same features as the full version of Photoshop and has limited functions. Photos can be viewed from the computer screen, using programs that can be purchased that include graphic design features. But how many artists can afford the hefty price tag? With the recent release of Corel PaintShop Pro 10, I wanted to go through some of the features, looking at the pros and cons of Photoshop versus PaintShop Pro, and highlight what makes them both popular among artists. PaintShop Pro vs. Photoshop: A Brief Look at the Tools Adobe Illustrator Illustrator is best known for its vector tools. This means that its tools are made with mathematically perfect and faithful to vector graphics. Adobe Encore It is often used to edit scanned photographs that have been taken with a digital camera. Corel's PaintShop Pro PaintShop Pro is probably the fastest-growing version of Corel's popular PaintShop software, but it has many more features. This version is meant to support both stock photography and on-screen editing. ProGrammar Checker Corrects grammatical errors in documents, including spelling and grammar, with a visual interface. Adobe Acrobat Adobe Acrobat is not a part of the free version, but is instead offered as a subscription-based Adobe Acrobat Reader program. Adobe Acrobat Reader lets the user read PDF documents on desktop computers. Adobe Camera Raw Photo correction on a "raw" photo right out of the camera or scanner. Adobe EPS Designs vector graphics of any size. Adobe Fireworks Mac only. Adobe Premiere Edit and create video with a powerful set of tools for color correction, effects, editing, scoring, and more. Adobe Dreamweaver Create dynamic web pages. Adobe Photoshop Elements Works with photos, not vector graphics like its competitors. Adobe Encore Edits photos taken with a digital camera. Adobe Illustrator Create vector graphics. Adobe InDesign Create layouts and books. Source: Adobe Adobe Illustrator Adobe Illustrator is the most widely used vector graphic application, with tools that enable users to draw, lay out, and move

Delta 3-26-desaturase activity, body composition and fat-free mass in males with late-onset hypogonadism. Delta-3-26-desaturase (D3-DS) activity has been related to a healthy fat pattern, and it may also have a role in male hypogonadism. The aims of this study were to determine D3-DS activity, body composition, and body fat distribution in male patients with late-onset hypogonadism (LOH), and to study possible correlations among these parameters. D3-DS activity was measured as arachidonic acid (AA) conversion rate, in leukocytes of 30 patients with LOH (40 +/- 1 years) and 30 healthy controls (41 +/- 1 years). D3-DS activity in leukocytes was higher in the LOH group (0.22 +/- 0.01 vs 0.16 +/- 0.01 nmol/10(6) cells per hour; P = .0001), with a marked difference between the lowest and the highest activity tertiles. Body fat, body mass index, body fat distribution, lean body mass, arm circumference, leg circumference, arm/leg circumference ratio, D3-DS activity, and leukocyte fatty acid levels were similar between the two groups. Body fat distribution was associated with D3-DS activity, but D3-DS activity was not associated with any other body composition parameter. In conclusion, D3-DS activity in males with LOH was higher than in controls. However, in patients with low D3-DS activity, body fat distribution was similar to the patients with high D3-DS activity.Q: INSERT Query takes longer than expected We are using Oracle 11g Express Edition. We are executing the following query and we are expecting to insert 2500 records, but it is taking more than 10 mins and the SQL execution is taking more than 800mb. INSERT INTO TABLE_NAME( FIELD_1,FIELD_2) VALUES (P_VALUE_1,P_VALUE_2) Are we missing something? A: You can run this to see what's in the table SELECT * FROM TABLE_NAME It might help you to see what's in the table OPTION PROMPT will also help you to spot where the table

Q: How to efficiently check if there is a DataBound control? I have quite a few large divs. They have dynamically added content. Sometimes that content is a control. It's one of the many items that have the.Controls property set. I would like to be able to check for each control to see if it has a DataBound control. When I check the.DataBound property, it says that it's not yet initialized for the control. When I check the.HasControls property, it says that it's not yet initialized for the controls. And yet the.HasControls property is null when it isn't actually null. What's the right way to do this? A: .HasControls is the same as.Controls[x].Controls[y]. This part of the documentation tells you how to check whether or not a particular object is bound: The following table shows how to check if a control is bound. (The table is a bit ambiguous, but you can see what it's talking about by looking at the first line of text for each item.) e novo, o julgamento da sentença dos réus que foram condenados no processo sobre o assassinato do menino de 10 anos na praça Sarney.
