Not sure if all those riding transit on the weekends are there because they don’t have a choice, or they are choosing not to use their car. As I noticed the bus leaving Union Station this morning, I saw many young people on the back, and this morning’s was one of the busiest I’ve seen to date. I had to ask the driver if I could move to the back as I was running behind a few people. He asked where I was going. I had no idea as I am currently trying to get a job in D.C., but I told him I was going to work. He said I would have to sell out to the back as I could not board the bus if I was not paying. So, I don’t use public transit for short trips but it does give me more time to work on my goals and dream. Thank you very much BC
