What's new:

A jaunt across Scandinavia, where in just a few minutes you can travel over 5 thousand km and find yourself crossing borders where the Danes and the Swedes have different smiles and the Finns and the Germans have different language. And if you want to find out more than just where you are on the map, a more in-depth film is included about the countries that border the Baltic Sea. The countries of Central and Northern Europe were once under one rule but have now established separate governments. These countries are all united by the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Bothnia, which link them together. Their landscapes have characteristics that are unique to their history and their geography. But together they also have a number of common problems with many factors such as culture and language, being the main drivers for war, fear, and conflict. In recent years however the Baltic states have been more united, following the abolition of the Union State, a federation joining Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Finland into one country after a long and hard fight for independence from the Soviet Union. Today these countries are very similar in many ways and what is typically a weekend trip across Scandinavia here is a full-blown holiday and so why not forget about the car for a while and have a look at the countries from a train window instead!

Flight Options You can fly to the countries included in this itinerary from most major airports in Europe and from Istanbul, in both case you can fly on our partner airlines. By Train The best way to get the feel of a country is to get a proper look of it. The best way to do that is to take the train, who comes closer to getting you in touch with the local culture. The National Rail Company of Sweden runs multiple train routes from various places to Gothenburg which is only 50 km south of the border for Sweden and Denmark. For Finland, Swedes can choose to take the train from Gothenburg to Stockholm. The train ride from Norway to Stockholm is a 2-hour journey and consists of a full day out. For the other countries, the towns and cities included in this itinerary are well-served by the high-speed trains run by Eurostar. For those people who would like the culture of the countries included in this itinerary in more detail, the Otrenir brochure is a must. Why take this trip?

Scenic route with varied landscapes and a different culture in every station.
