Automatically organizes the most important work and allocates the time accordingly. It automatically detects your busy time of day and date, and builds a schedule based on the active hours of the day and time of year. In just a few seconds, you see your schedule and tasks in beautiful bubble charts, with colors that indicate the priority. You can specify which work tasks belong to one specific project, and this helps you see what is taking up more time and which tasks need more attention. You can plan your tasks over a range of dates and choose one specific date as the "active date." Doing this gives you a clear vision of your schedule and helps you create tasks that are most appropriate for your active hours and tasks list. You can make your to-do list prioritized and you can mark which tasks need immediate attention. This gives you the power to decide whether a task should come first over others. You also get the benefit of seeing your to-do list as a bubble chart that clearly illustrates the importance of each task along with time and urgency. Best Feature: You can choose what type of schedule you want to achieve. You can choose one or multiple days at a time and work on a particular date. The system will help you perform better by including due dates for important and urgent tasks. This will ensure that if you are not able to complete the task or it is not necessary to complete immediately, then you will be notified about a due date and the task will get automatically entered into your task list. Additional Features: This is a versatile to-do list management system that can help you deal with any type of work environment. You can use it either in a business or a home environment. It comes with features to give a number of advantages for you to easily manage your to-do list. You can add notes if you need to put your thoughts on the to-do list. It will even notify you of a reminder when a task has no date set. It is also designed to help you categorize the tasks according to their importance and when they can be completed. It has features to help you know what is most important as well as what needs immediate attention. The system will show you a to-do list that needs more attention. It includes several different features that will help you organize your to-do list. You can find a complete description of each of the system's features in
