He left an isolation ward where he spent the last five days recovering after he was diagnosed on May 8. Six people who were known to have Ebola or to have had contact with people infected with the virus were admitted to the same facility. Image credit: Associated Press Health officials in Sierra Leone said the boy's father, who has recovered, had been discharged from a hospital in Bonthe district. The child is being kept in isolation at the same hospital after doctors tested him twice for signs of the disease. One of the doctors who treated the child, Dr.

Kyekyeku Jalloh, said, "We did all the tests for the disease and found that he had it." In neighboring Liberia, a 33-year-old man who says he fell ill while visiting his son in a clinic died after another person who had been in contact with the same man died of the disease on Sunday. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says that the man and the man's 33-year-old son were the only people who had contact with the first man while he was infected with Ebola. Liberia's health minister said the man died at a hospital in the capital Monrovia. A doctor who has been treating five patients for Ebola-like symptoms is now the first person known to have caught the virus in Guinea. Doctors from the U.N. mission are in the country to monitor health care workers who have been caring for more than 50 people who are suspected of having Ebola. Ebola has become a global health disaster. There are now more than 3,600 people who have been infected with the virus -- including more than 1,400 who have died -- since the current outbreak was declared in March. It has spread to countries in the eastern region of Africa.Do you have money in your retirement plan? It's a good thing, because almost one-third of it could be at risk because of a new rule the Trump administration imposed on Wednesday. The rule, which is likely to worsen the problem
