Q: Chef on Vagrant ChefDK 13.5 on Windows 10 causes "Could not find Chef node at //node/chef-client" When I use ChefDK to build a new AMI with a Vagrant box of Ubuntu 16.04 LTS, everything works perfectly, however when I try to use it on a different machine running Windows 10 (inside a VirtualBox VM), I get the following message: Could not find Chef node at //node/chef-client I haven't been able to find any way to resolve this. It does not seem to be a problem with the VM/VirtualBox as another machine running Debian 9 (with identical Vagrantfile) correctly builds an AMI. A: Found a workaround here: The issue seems to be that Windows does not allow access to the directory /var/chef/cache/cookbooks/ from arbitrary users. In order to allow that, you'll need to add usermod -s /bin/bash or usermod -s /bin/bash to your Vagrantfile under providers/virtualbox/boot2docker/private_config.sh: Vagrant.configure("2") do |config| config.vm.box = "default/ubuntu-16.04.1-x64" config.vm.network :private_network, ip: "192.168.33.12" config.vm.provision :chef_client, provisioner: "chef/cookbook_vagrant", chef_user: "vagrant", cookbook_path: "../cookbooks/vagrant/node" config.vm.provision :shell, path: "../scripts/create_vagrant_chef.sh", privileged: false config.vm.provision :shell, path: "../scripts/create_vagrant_chef.sh", privileged: false comediansJersey is awesomely mediocre The jersey situation in the NFL has reached an all time high, according to a study performed by the Network Operating System, which makes sense because of a bunch of things – you can buy your own or get it for free, there are a bunch of games that could be played, one sport that is not played, and one football league that does not exist. One of the things that is something that the real world has in common with sports in the virtual world is the lack of interest. The inconsistency of any sport can be reduced to the fact that it is extremely popular by far, but there are very few people that are interested in the league, and there are even fewer people who are interested in seeing the same team play over and over again. The second thing that is similar to real life, is the amount of time it takes to change jerseys. According to the Network Operating System, teams in the NFL change their jerseys for 3.5 seconds. The smallest amount of time is a fraction of a second, meaning that one of the teams changes the jerseys every 30 minutes. The third thing that connects the NFL and the real world is the concept of free agency. The NFL teams just announced that they will not do anything about
