Screenshots Reviews Fun game! 5 By Ryan2476 I just bought this game and am so hyped! It's so much fun! I'm hooked and can't wait to play it online. The biggest problem is that it's very easy to get lost in the game and find it hard to find your opponents, so a feature to change the level of complexity might be a great idea. Also the blocks can be a little buggy but besides that it's a very fun game. Sweet, awesome! 5 By Brannan Wow, first look at the game was fantastic. Started playing and I can't even imagine how addicting the game is! Every single thing about this game is exceptional, all three of the modes are just incredible.

What's new in The Fifth Day:

Review Neon District is a new show on Citytv's At The Drive In website. Each week a different comedian takes the strip and offers their many unique takes on a single topic. Each of Neon District's 63 episodes is shown in 100 minutes (in "soap opera" like fashion). This week's comedian was comedian and actor Antonio Fargas. First things first, let's just get one thing out of the way, we're going to keep this venture strictly factual. See, when just about any anime or manga fans ever question me on why I'm in a dating pool that even the video xbox appeals to describe as being like "a hormone riddled year 10 schoolboy" I feel a pressing need to just be honest. Like, what more is there really to know? My cousin put it in a sweet facebook status, basically though. "are you sure you can't see your skin in that mask?", and to be serious, I actually am sure that I can. At 6 foot 4 I've never lacked for personal space, especially when sharing with people that actually wear trash cans on their head for a living. But hey, there's always that time I'll get a older woman impersonating my mom calling me a spoiled, little brat. But oh well, it's good for extra creepy sex/fistfights/skeet-screaming and all that jazz. Ok, moving on... so did you know that the Yokohama Bay Area was officially named Japan's Best & Nicest City? See, there's an entire Youtube documentary on the topic, containing a city council meeting where they include the tapes of the Bay Area coming in first, plus a whole bunch of speeches talking about how Japan is a culture that encourages individual self-expression, yadda yadda. But you know what? I'm guessing that none of you have ever been to Yokohama anyway. Why? Because the perception of the place that is the most over-packaged, extremely depressing, humidity driven "Japan" they could possibly imagine to exist, is actually infinitely cooler than the
