1. How To Increase Colorful Gradients In An Image In a photo editing app like Photoshop, there's a default gradient tool for creating color gradients. However, these gradients have a problem: every time you change a setting, the gradient changes too. The easiest way to fix this is to click and drag two or more gradient stops together. This way, you get a single gradient that can be changed later on using color picker or color wheel.
2. How To Create A Creative Effect With Adjustment Layers Adjustment layers let you change any setting without affecting other settings. They are great for creating special effects and basic editing tweaks. To create an adjustment layer, you simply click the Create button on the Layers panel and choose Adjustment Layer. You can change its name or color, hide or show it on the active layer, or even create a group of adjustment layers.

Q: MySQL JOIN with AND and OR In order to perform a join in MySQL, I have been using this: `SELECT DISTINCT table1.id, table1.title, table1.caption, table2.id FROM table1 LEFT JOIN table2 ON table1.id = table2.id ORDER BY table1.title, table2.id DESC`; But I'm trying to perform an additional join based on some conditions: `SELECT DISTINCT table1.id, table1.title, table1.caption, table2.id FROM table1 LEFT JOIN table2 ON table1.id = table2.id LEFT JOIN table3 ON table2.id = table3.id WHERE table2.active = 1 AND table1.active = 1 AND table3.active = 1 ORDER BY table1.title, table2.id DESC`; But this is not working, I'm getting a syntax error. Can anyone help me and explain how I can do an additional join based on the condition I set in the first line? A: Left join is with table1 on table2. and table2 is table3. you have to use more condition for the second join `SELECT DISTINCT table1.id, table1.title, table1.caption, table2.id FROM table1 LEFT JOIN table2 ON table1.id = table2.id LEFT JOIN table3 ON table2.id = table3.id WHERE table2.active = 1 and table1.active = 1 and table3.active = 1 ORDER BY table1.title, table2.id DESC`; Tag: cifra I'm expecting sweet, sweet love from somebody, if you can help me find him. I'm sick of blowing my own horn, what can I say? This song is a bit tongue in cheek, although most of my songs are. I like this song because it is a unique perspective on loss. Written by Mary Reed Simmons and Craig Smith, recorded by The Flying Burrito Brothers

It's time to start using your camera and see what happens. Now, we're going to take this just beyond video editing, into the next level of digital media, and multi-media editing and storytelling, and you're not going to believe the results you can get, like if you tried to tell stories with static images using this kind of digital media, it's hard, because static images don't have any life, any dynamism, any movement to them, to tell the story. So in multi-media, you're going to have all these hyper-layered kind of media, things like video, audio, text, it's hard for static media to tell the story. So it's hard to have a compelling story with static images, but here's where images, and a lot of people and artists and animators are realizing that. They are using motion to tell their stories, even though they don't know it, with Motion. This is going to be a fantastic next step for you, we're going to take you past 2D media, and video, and photo editing, and then we're going to take you into the next step, which is what you're going to learn in this module. So, let's jump right into it. Here's a little slide show. So here we've got a shot of a guy, walking across the street, and then we've got two shots, one shot of the same guy, taking a picture of that same guy. Now, we just told you that static images can't tell the story. They don't have any life. What we want to do is animate that
