> Rollman, what if you create the vm using the installation media that you already downloaded? Chaser, Chaser, that's one possibility. Thing is, it always will try to mount it at boot time I had to enable the fast boot option in my UEFI options. Hi, Evolution? andre: yes, it's got a bug that just came out I haven't used the installer to make a bootable thumb drive yet andre: looks like it's not too busy atm andre: Launchpad bug 1645660 in evolution (Ubuntu) "Evolution freezes/freezes on startup on bionic" [Undecided,New] you do not specify a server address with apt, is that what you're trying to do? Slade, and what about post install updates.. i cannot find any way of preconfiguring for post install updates.. Slade: do you know if that bug (at the URL above, it's not clear) has a workaround? you should use subnets in /etc/apt/sources.list not server address strings andre: Can you verify your version (dpkg --print-architecture) and make sure the bug is on the package? I have done it before by doing it that way andre: but if you are wondering, this bug has just started a bunch of devs andre: andre:.links is a list of posts,.incpreview is more like it Slade: honestly, i don't think the bionic upgrade path is going to work

"Tyrants of the rock" - What is a Lithoid? Lithoids are a popular and very broadly applicable civilization. What you build is what you take. We are a rocking species, and wherever we go, we bring our heavy equipment with us. We are creatures of the earth. Lithoids are a mildly civilized society, who turn to stone for food. They are surprisingly humanoid, with some showing a more animal-like quality. They can live in nearly any environment and most have a tolerance for a wide range of temperatures. Lithoid mechanics have been inspired by the space theme. Like the stone figures in space, which are actually just massive meteors, we also like to think of them as space rocks. Our resource gathering and manufacturing are similar to these space rocks as we are made of minerals and minerals are just the way we make our bread. It's a really good fit. IMPORTANT NOTE: Lithoids have been updated to include new Mining and Shipbuilding mechanics and a complete reworking of their research tree. Please visit the Lithoid Mechanics page for more details.
