Download Last update: Yorkville Burlesque Festival The Yorkville Burlesque Festival is an annual event produced by the Yorkville Burlesque Festival Society in New York City, usually held in late May, in Yorkville, Manhattan. Performers take on the roles of stereotypical 1930s urban working-class characters. The festival was launched in 1982 by Dominique Clapp, also known as "The Empress of Bayou City". The first festival took place over three nights, and lasted six hours from 5 p.m. to midnight. It featured 17 acts from New York City and five from New Orleans. The festival was put on hiatus in 1985 when Clapp moved to New Orleans. In 2011, the event was revived. In 2013, the festival was renamed the NYC Burlesque Festival. As told to Redbrick by Rachel Platten On one end of the real estate spectrum, you have people who buy old houses and tear them down to the studs. They do this for two primary reasons. Firstly, they don't have the budget to buy new houses, or they don't want to, in a niche market. They buy for this reason, and to fix it up and sell it for a profit. Then, on the other end, there are people who see themselves as real estate investors, and they buy foreclosures. They buy it for cheaper than they'd buy it new. They buy more because they have the budget and they do it for the fun of it. I fall firmly in that second category. I bought a home when I was just starting out in business and it was cheap because it was in c6a93da74d
