Guglielmo Parisi Guglielmo Parisi (May 5, 1893 in Reggio Emilia - August 30, 1969 in Reggio Emilia) was an Italian painter, graphic artist and art teacher. Biography He studied architecture in Reggio Emilia, and then worked in the studios of both Mario Botta and Francesco Baginato. He also studied in France and in Venice. He was first recognized at the Esposizione Internazionale d'Arti Grafiche in Bologna in 1928 where he exhibited a semi-figurative painting called Cotroneo. He went on to exhibit with the Società di Cultura Dell'Emilia-Romagna at the Sala dell'Orazione degli Amici and at the Arte Club d'Ombrellone in Bologna. He exhibited with the Istituto Veneto di Scienze, Lettere ed Arti in Venice in 1940. In 1944, along with Benedetto Baule and Guido Schmidt, he founded the Centro Italiano di Documentazione Artefici (CID), an association which promoted an art appreciation movement that endeavored to c6a93da74d
