Genius Nsp Universal Programmer Software Download

27-Feb-2016 Well, I don't know about you but I use this programmer quite a lot. I like the fact that it's Bluetooth capable. Easy to use. I do a lot of testing for/with Bluetooth beeps (mostly the Wifi style), so whenever the programmer gets paired with my test-beds, I like to use it for fast testing. I had tried a lot of Bluetooth programmers, but none of them has really worked for my purposes. None of them has had working programming software included. So the GQ Blaster is perfect. The software is also very good. Needs testing with different Flashton hardware however. 26-Feb-2016 The GQ Blaster 1.10 is the latest version of the software. It has made some improvements in Smart-Copy & Bad-Block-analysis on NAND chips. Using 1.0-1.2, it has the ability to properly run the Smart-Copy (copy from NAND) when the Virtual Chip-Copy commands are very low. Eventually, it was able to work 100% on all test results. Smart-copy is a vital task for creating new test-beds. Running 3D-prints with 4 forgery chips, it saves a lot of time in creating new test-beds. Earlier versions of software had a bug with Bad-Block-Table that caused the chip to stop working. I've fixed that as well. Saving the new chip data to SD card during programming is something that I am going to try with using windows bootable USB drive to use it. The chip also needs to be calibrated to work correctly as well. It was a fun fix, and I hope to write a blog about it here soon. 26-Feb-2016 First Impressions: The software is very user-friendly. I was able to program my GQ-3X flashtron NAND chips on my 4th attempt. Initially, the test-beds were only programmed during the 6:00PM to 9:00PM time slot. I experimented with different programming-times until I found the magic-time for this tool. As soon as it is paired with the test-beds, it will automatically select the right command for the type of chip & NAND density. 5ec8ef588b
