Fix Firmware MI2165 MI2168 Chip Reset Printer Samsung 676 ((LINK))

i have a brother hl-5250 and i noticed whenever i print on it the toner gets exhausted and some of it is not deposited on the paper. i check the 'toner level' and it is low. therefore, i was just wanting to know how to configure or reset the toner level (i am very new to the printer). i have done the reset and reset again...still the same. i just want to know if i need to change a setting somewhere else. i have already reset the toner level a couple of times just in case i got something wrong. youre probably wanting to learn how to fix the light on your printer that comes on every few seconds to indicate the cartridges are low. its a bit different for each printer, but this older hp model uses a chip rather than a sensor to count the ink. if youre smart, youll figure out how to re-fill the cartridges through your web browser like these guys did. if youre not as smart as these guys, try any of the other solutions below or keep trying web searches like this ink cartridge refill solution at ebay . you may have already tried this, but maybe its worth a shot: theres a reset button on your printer. put the ink cartridges in correctly, and then quickly press it when its empty. if youre unsuccessful then you can reach out to hps support team. good work, mohit! sometimes, theres no easy fix to this nightmare of a printer. hp does not list firmware upgrades on their site, and there is nothing i could find online. i am sorry for your troubles. i hope ive saved you some time now. unfortunately, this firmware update was the reason for my most frequent frustration with my hp printer. the printers internal resistance was missing causing longer periods of time between changing the ink cartridges. try this trick to prevent further delays until you have the time to call your email contact for hp.

Fix Firmware MI2165 MI2168 Chip Reset Printer Samsung 676

i have a used 3008mp but it is showing empty. i would like to know, would it be a good idea to get a new ink cartridge from a trusted vendor?. i didn't like the fact that i can't see how much ink there is. is there a way to adjust the head so that the printer will have less of a white line at the top of the paper? i have a samsung mfc-5760dn and it keeps on discharging no matter what i do. when i bought the printer, it never happened. i loaded the software and loaded about 40ppm (about 4ppm more than it needs to print), went to print and then it started draining. well i set the print speed to 80 ppm and it still drained. i turned it off for 5 minutes and it would start draining again. i left it off for an hour and it still drained and when i got up the next morning i left it off for another 5 hours and still drained every couple of minutes. it would print ok if i just didn't print anything. that's the only solution i can come up with right now. the ink didn't come out of the printer and i had a ton of toner left over. i had to buy 6 black ink cartridges because i could only get 3 colored ones. does anyone have any suggestions? i cannot print from my laptop to my hp 4f. i have the hp 4f connected to my laptop using an hp usb cable. if i print from my laptop to the hp 4f, the whole process takes only a couple of seconds. however, if i try to print from my laptop to my flatbed scanner, which is connected via a separate usb cable, the process takes more than 60 seconds. also, i can print using the hp 4f to the hp 4f without any problem. i am attaching a print out of a firmware update for an hp 6l 'waterproof' printer. i was able to use the attached download file on both of my printers (a hp 6l and a hp 12l). both printers came with their original software installed, so i had to uninstall this hp 12l before i started the download. the download is pretty straight forward, but at times you need to enter the firmware version into the program in order to continue with the next steps. i have not used any additional commands other than the ones supplied. good luck everyone.
