Clicking the "for" button lets you accept a contrast setting up to 50%. - Automatically remove noise and unwanted artifacts in images. Noise may be introduced by digital cameras as it reads the picture, or as a result of using too little or too much light to capture an image. This new Noise removal feature comes with a pair of sliders. Unwanted noise is lighter gray, light noise is more obvious, and dark noise is almost impossible to notice. Chose High for the former, which is more even, no matter where in the frame the image is shot, and Lower for the latter, which is more apparent in brighter areas. - With the new Option Bar, you can specify options like Sharpening amount, Optimize for Print, and Radial Blur. Sharpening lets you adjust the overall sharpness of the picture. The Amount and Detail sliders control Sharpening, and the Radius and Density sliders determine the strength of the blur applied to the image. - Choose Lightroom users to contact by name if you've uploaded a new photo to the web. Clicking the "Allow" button in the Step 9 dialog, which lets you choose the picture's output format, can now identify a user in your Lightroom library. The id is sent to the chosen users without personal information or location data.
